Statistical Claim Outcome Risk Estimate™

BUNCH PUBLISHES PREDICTIVE MODELING WHITE PAPER

Bunch & Associates, Inc. (“Bunch”) is pleased to announce that it has published its SCORE (Statistical Claim Outcome Risk Estimate™) white paper. Making the right decisions requires businesses to anticipate and plan for possible changes in the future. Uncertainty makes strategic planning complex. Assessing and analyzing a company’s historical data in order to predict future events is a strategy utilized in many industries and is now finding its way into workers’ compensation. Utilizing SCORE, Bunch clients have effectively impacted overall claims outcomes and reduced overall claims and care management expenditures. As the available data sets grow, the success of the model will enable Bunch clients to continue to refine their processes. Any client electing to utilize this invaluable claim resolution tool will benefit from optimal outcomes and efficiency for all types of claims.

The intent of the document is to accomplish the following:

- Define predictive modeling in the context of workers’ compensation
- Outline the benefits from both a clinical and operational perspective
- Identify why an employer should utilize models that are specific to their business and employee characteristics
- Provide an overview of SCORE’s superior program results.

To obtain a copy of this document outlining the differentiators of Bunch’s approach to predictive modeling in the workers’ compensation arena, simply email: sean.odonnell@bunchcare.com.
